

Benefits of Corporate Membership

SINCE 1893, the American Society for Engineering Education has provided leadership and information to the U.S. engineering education community. Through several key policy studies of engineering education, provocative and informative publications, and opportunities for interaction among its members, ASEE has helped the community adapt to society's changing needs and ensure the continued relevance of engineering and engineering technology education.

ASEE'S VISION is to advance excellence in all aspects of engineering and engineering technology education. To realize its vision, ASEE: provides members with valuable services, including first-rate conferences and publications...works with educational institutions to improve engineering and engineering technology education and faculty development... encourages collaborations among industry, academe, and government...enhances the participation of underrepresented groups in the engineering and engineering technology education community ...and promotes the value of the profession to society.

OVER FOUR HUNDRED engineering and engineering technology schools and more than one hundred corporations, associations, and governmental entities currently take advantage of ASEE membership to keep abreast of issues affecting engineering and engineering technology education and to play vital roles in shaping the future direction of the field.

Three Long-Term Benefits of Membership

- ◆ Keep abreast of trends in engineering education and research. ASEE Membership enables your organization to establish an on-going dialogue with deans, department heads, researchers, teaching faculty, and administrators from the finest engineering and engineering technology programs in North America.
- ◆ Influence what and how engineering students are taught. Engineering educators rely on corporate input to shape curriculum trends as well as to develop important research projects. Corporate interaction helps educators understand more fully the needs of industry and enables them to prepare their students to meet these needs.
- ◆ Insure the future quality of engineering and engineering technology. Your active participation and support will make a crucial difference at the most basic and critical level — the education of future engineers and engineering technologists who will be the backbone of your organization in the decades to come.

Corporate Member Council

As an ASEE Corporate/Non-Academic Member, you may appoint a "key contact" to represent your organization on ASEE's Corporate Member Council, which has a specific mission to advance the dialogue and collaboration between academia and industry. Meeting twice a year and offering participation in other events throughout the year, the Council provides the ideal conduit for communications from industry into the top levels of engineering and engineering technology education.

Two Levels of Membership

ASEE offers two levels of Corporate/Non-Academic Membership, based on the size of your organization:

Standard Membership — for companies 100 or more employees, for non-profit organizations with 25 or more employees, and for government entities. Standard members may choose up to four employees — a key contact representative to the Corporate Member Council and three others — who will all receive the benefits of individual ASEE membership, as outlined below, at no added cost.

Annual dues: $1,400

Affiliate Membership — for companies fewer than 100 employees and non-profit organizations with fewer than 25 employees. Affiliate members name one person to serve as Corporate Member Council representative and receive the benefits of an individual ASEE membership.

Annual dues: $350

Engineering Research Council

(Optional Added Membership)

Both standard and affiliate Corporate/Non-Academic Members can participate in ASEE's Engineering Research Council (ERC). The ERC is composed of engineering faculty members and research administrators, as well as representatives of corporations and government agencies who are concerned about the funding and administration of federal research funds to engineering colleges.

Annual added dues: $150
