

Jane Pritchard
Lecturer
University of Glasgow

Biography

Jane Pritchard is a lecturer in the Learning and Teaching Centre, University of Glasgow. Her research and teaching involves educational development across the university, with an emphasis on engineering education. Previously she worked in Queens University, Canada undertaking research into engineering and society. Before this appointment she worked for the UK Centre for Materials Education on a EU-funded programme 'Composites on Tour'. Jane obtained a degree in materials science and engineering in from the University of Bath 1995 and subsequently a PhD in 1999. She has been involved in research on a range of materials. From Aug1st 2007 Jane is on a 2 year secondment to the Higher Education Academy Engineering Subject Centre in the UK where she is employed as the Learning and Teaching Advisor.