2008 ASEE Board Elections - Special Voting Incentive Announcement

February 28, 2008

Dear ASEE Members:

Mail in your ballot before March 31 for the 2008 ASEE board elections and you will automatically be entered in a drawing to win a Free iPod Touch 16GB, or one of the six 8GB iPod Nanos!

The 2008 ASEE Board elections are now underway. As an incentive to increase voter participation, ASEE will hold a random drawing of members who have voted in this year's ASEE elections. Seven members will be randomly selected in drawings to be held in early April 2008. The winner in the first drawing will receive an iPod Touch (16GB). Winners of the six other drawings will each receive an iPod Nano (8GB). Winners will be notified in April.

Product information for the iPod Touch and the iPod Nano that are being offered can be found on the Apple web site at: <http://www.apple.com/itunes/>.

ASEE candidates who are currently running for election, as well as ASEE staff, are ineligible to participate in this offer.

As an ASEE member, you should have received your ballot along with your February issue of Prism magazine. Cast your vote to elect ASEE members who will serve on the Board of Directors beginning June 25, 2008. All ballots received at ASEE headquarters must be postmarked by March 31, 2008 in order to be counted, as well as to qualify for this offer.

The slate of candidates who are running in this year's election is available on the ASEE web site at <http://www.asee.org/about/Elections.cfm>.

Remember, your vote counts, so please send in your ballot now.

Frank L. Huband,
ASEE Executive Director
