GEDC MEETS IN BOSTON

In March, the Global Engineering Deans Council (GEDC) held a workshop and an Executive Committee Meeting in Boston. The meetings were attended by 20 Deans/Rectors worldwide who identified key areas for GEDC focus. The three main themes decided upon are: How to be a successful Dean/Professor, the Global Engineer, and Technology in education specifically related to innovation in engineering education. These themes will be explored at upcoming GEDC events that will take place in Budapest (2009) and Singapore (2010). Speakers at the Boston meeting included Jim Vanides, Hewlett-Packard, and Henry Leitner, Harvard University. Presentations from the meeting can be found on ASEE's website under the EDI Conference page.
