

To the attendees of the 125th ASEE Annual Conference & Exhibition in Salt Lake City, UT,

In the last couple of months, our nation has seen evidence that sexual harassment is pervasive and racism is far from over. I am deeply disturbed by the revelations of misconduct that we have been hearing about lately.

The ASEE community is built on collaboration and mutual respect. Harassment is an act of aggression that violates our fundamental expectations of equality and professionalism toward each other. The Professional Interest Council (PIC) Chairs have worked on a code of conduct for our annual conference which is attached to this email. ASEE meetings are about conversations and partnerships around a common interest related to engineering education. Our hope is to make all attendees feel welcome and safe, no matter their gender identity and expression, race, sexual orientation, age, religion, ethnicity, political affiliation, ability status, and educational background.

If after reviewing the attached document, you have any questions or comments, please, contact me.

I am looking forward to seeing all of you in Salt Lake City!

Regards,

Agnieszka Miguel, Ph.D.
Vice President of Professional Interest Council
Professional Interest Council I Chair
Associate Professor and Chair
Electrical and Computer Engineering
Seattle University
amiguel@seattleu.edu